Ye Editor's Page

One of my duties as editor of this, the eighth volume of the Flemington High School Echo, is to offer a word of greeting, and of farewell to you. The purpose and aim of any yearbook is to portray and interpret the life and spirit of the particular school. The staff of the 1937 Echo has worked hard to accomplish this purpose. Words, once read, are not often re-read. Pictures, on the other hand, have a charm and appeal which brings one back to them, time and again. They provide a stimulus to recall which no amount of words could provide.

With this fact in mind we have endeavored to produce a volume largely made up of informal portraits and snapshots, the more to help you recall the pleasant associations and activities of your high school days.

Circumstances beyond our control have, this year, necessitated several revisions of the book before going to press. Nevertheless, the staff has, I feel certain, produced a volume which is a rather complete pictorial summary of the year, and which will, as the years go by, acquire increased value as a treasure storehouse of fond memories.

Editor-in-chief

A TRIBUTE

TO

Miss Sara V. Gordon

*who has taught us the joy of singing—whose inspiration has lifted us to higher levels of thought and conduct, we,
the staff of the 1937 Echo, sincerely dedicate this volume.*

Ye Symbols

Flemington, with its beginnings stretching back to the early days of New Jersey's history, still retains many marks of the colonial period which followed the establishment of permanent settlements. From this section came many men prominent in colonial annals. Their memory and accomplishments still live, and much of the work of their hands remain as monuments to their efforts to build a civilization in a new world.

These memories and associations have been further commemorated in the theme of this volume.

The colonial schoolhouse, and the colonial church with its pastor pointing the way to a better life, have been used to introduce that portion of the volume dealing with the administration and faculty.

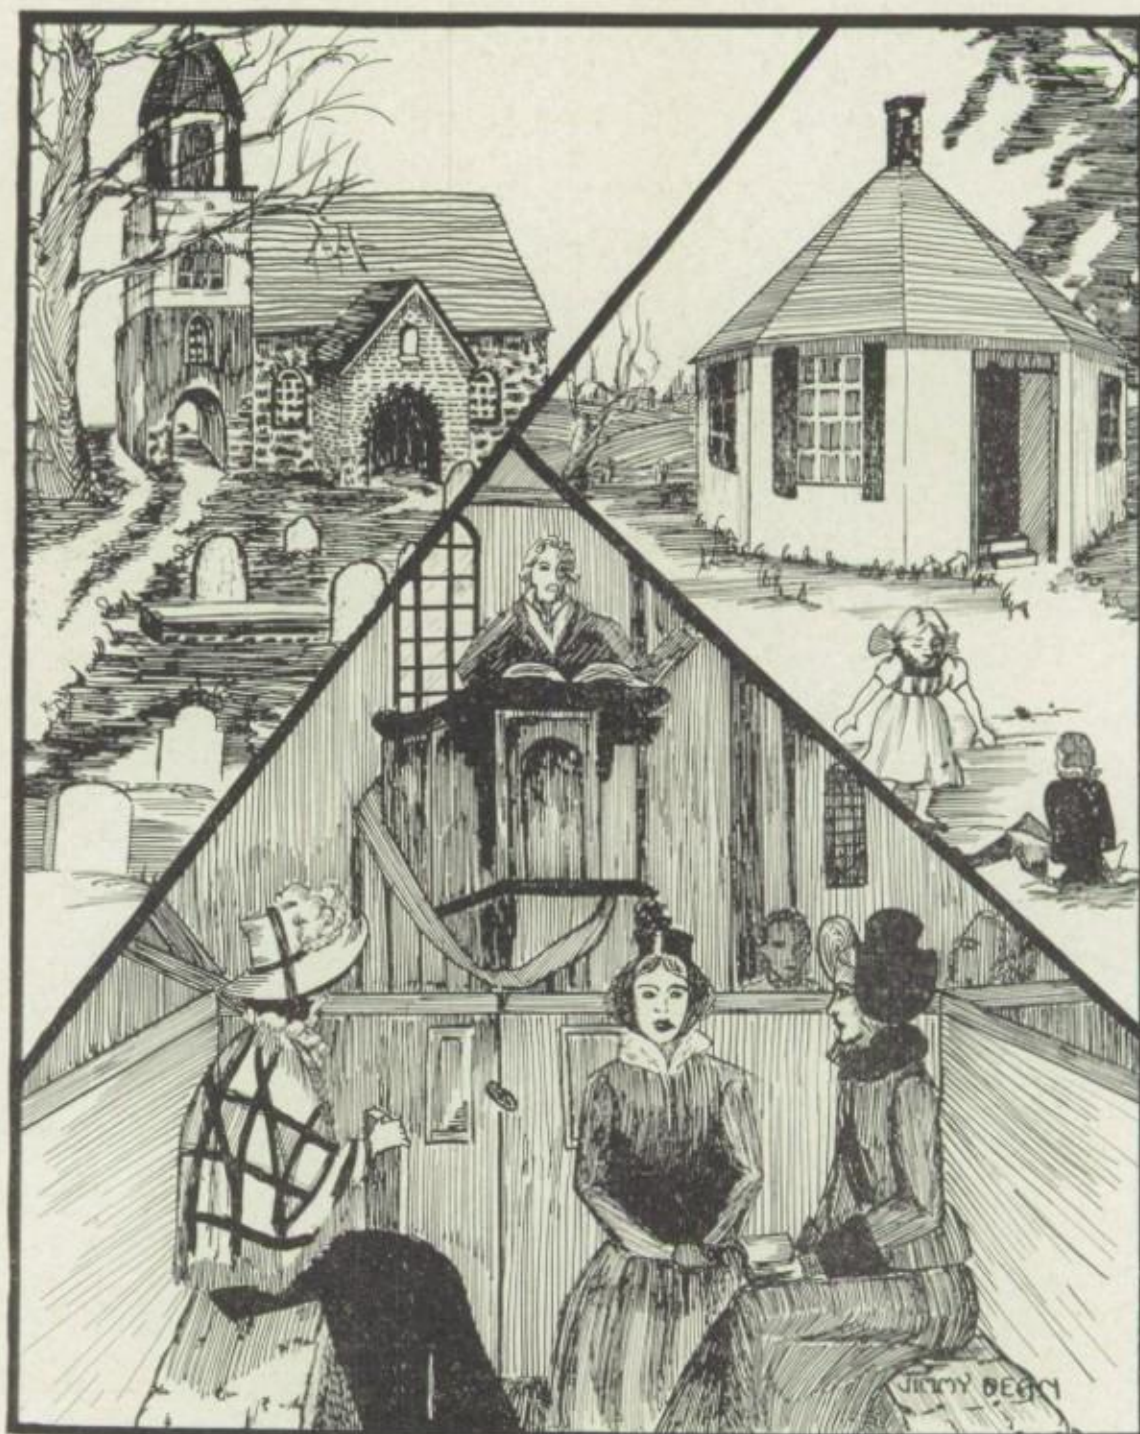

A section dealing with the classes is fittingly introduced by sketches of a colonial school room, the schoolmaster, and the poor fellow who has incurred the master's wrath—the "dunce."

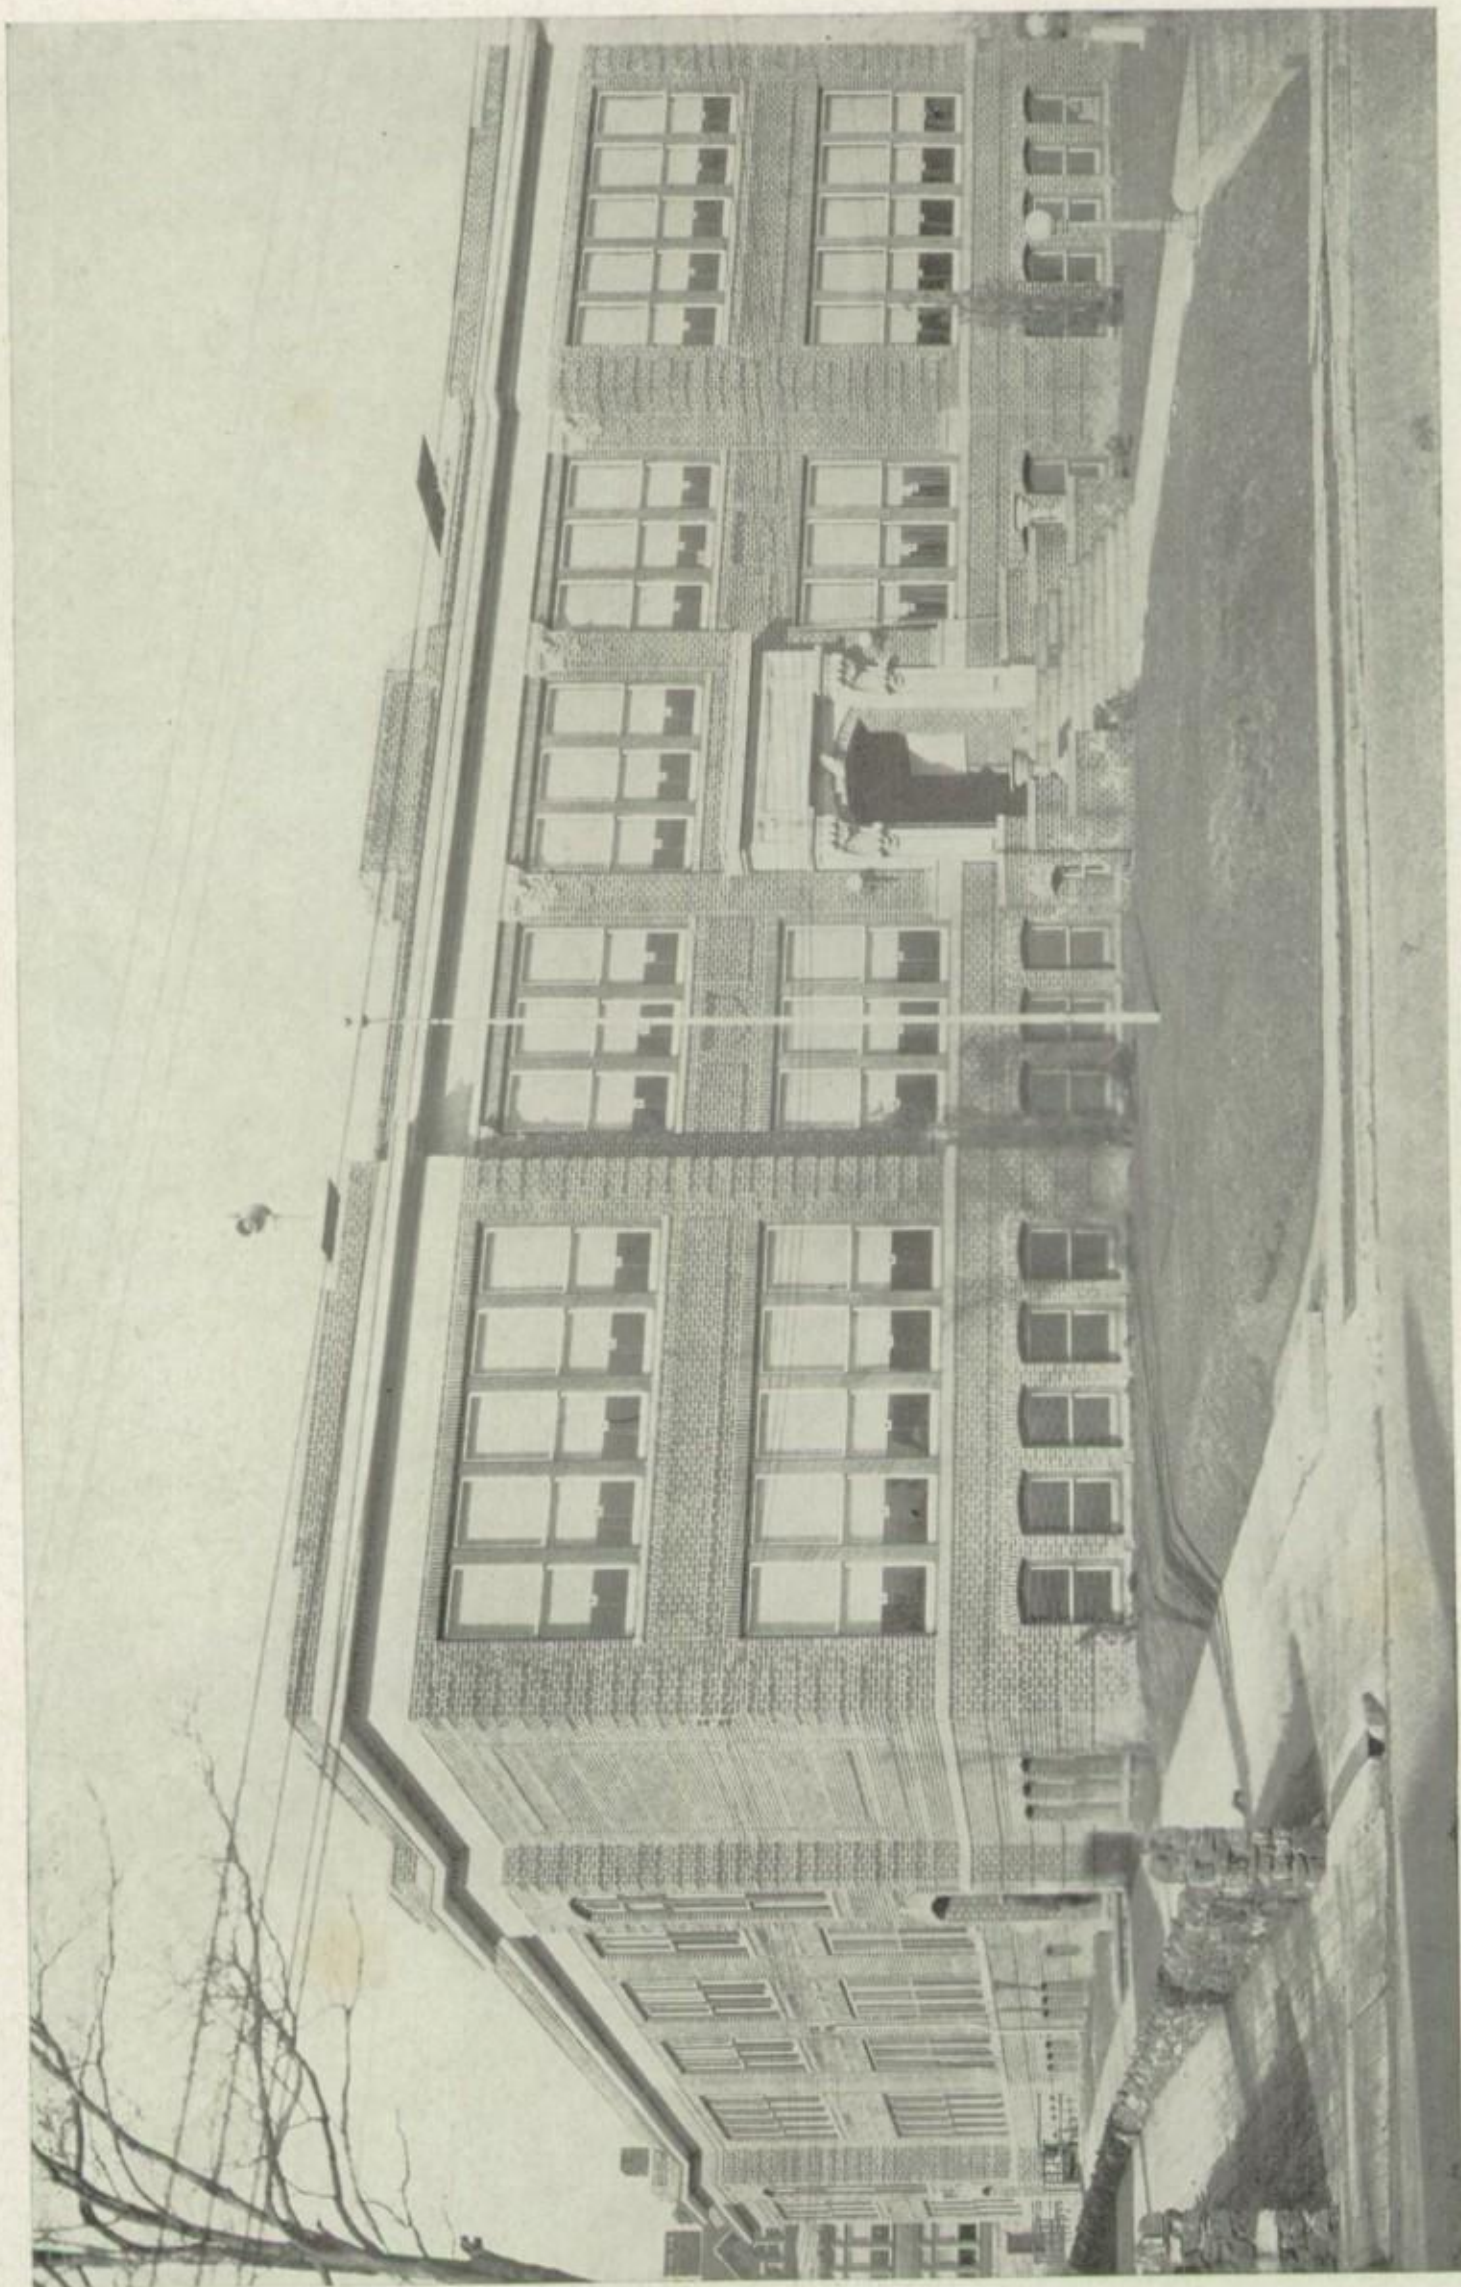

Organizations and activities of this early period of our history were simple, and even crude when compared with our modern commercialized life. These early groups however, as portrayed by the quilting party, the taffy pull, minuet, stage coach, and military drill, present a composite picture of people who were able to provide their own leisure-time activities.

Colonial sports as such, were not as organized or as numerous as the activities included under that name today. The hunt, for men, croquette and skating for both men and women, form the prelude to the athletic section.

The courier and the town crier were chosen as fitting subjects to represent the space devoted to advertisements.

Science and Mathematics

Biology is the study of living things. Physics and Chemistry appeal to boys and girls who are interested in finding out how and why things work as they do. General Science gives an overview of the whole field, and Agriculture trains in the application of science to farming. Junior high mathematics aims to prepare the students for useful citizenship, and to lay the foundation for the advanced topics—Algebra, Geometry, and Trigonometry, taught in the senior high school.

Commercial Subjects

Utilitarianism necessarily dominates the aims and purposes of this department. Efficient service in the commercial fields demands skill in arithmetical computations, the acquirement of more than the fundamentals of bookkeeping, the ability to take dictation rapidly and accurately, and transcribe it in approved form on the typewriter. Those who, in various capacities direct the commercial activities of the country must have a background of law as applied to commerce, and have a wide acquaintance with the geography of nations.

Fine Arts

Practically all people can learn to appreciate the beauties of art, and the charm of good music. Life is richer for all who acquire these appreciations. It is not a function of the public schools to produce finished artists, or musicians, but it is a function of education to help mold well rounded individuals who can make their communities better places in which to live. Appreciation of the fine arts is a big step in the solution of leisure time problems.

Practical Arts

The shop is a place where the students learn good citizenship, honesty, and pride of ownership. They develop a sense of realization of the value and work needed to produce the world's economic goods. This course serves, to some students, as a guide toward the choice of a life occupation; to others it gives the necessary hand techniques essential for practical repairs. Mechanical Drawing, making use of accepted methods, helps pupils to develop and put into concrete form, their ideas of construction.

Household Arts

Throughout the program in this department the aim in both junior and senior high schools is to develop responsibility, and to have the knowledge acquired in school carry over into the home. Cooperation and initiative are developed through the work of the classes. The making of clothing by girls in the sewing groups, the serving of school lunches to faculty and students, as well as to special groups on occasion, by girls in the foods classes, contribute effectively toward the objective of this department.

Physical Education

Healthy bodies are essential to sound minds. A well rounded course in physical education should include instruction in hygiene, first aid, and the basic principles of organized play, as well as instruction in formal exercises. Emphasis should be placed on those activities which may be carried over into middle life and beyond. To this end intra-mural sports and those games of a distinct recreational nature should receive major emphasis because of their importance from the standpoint of leisure time.

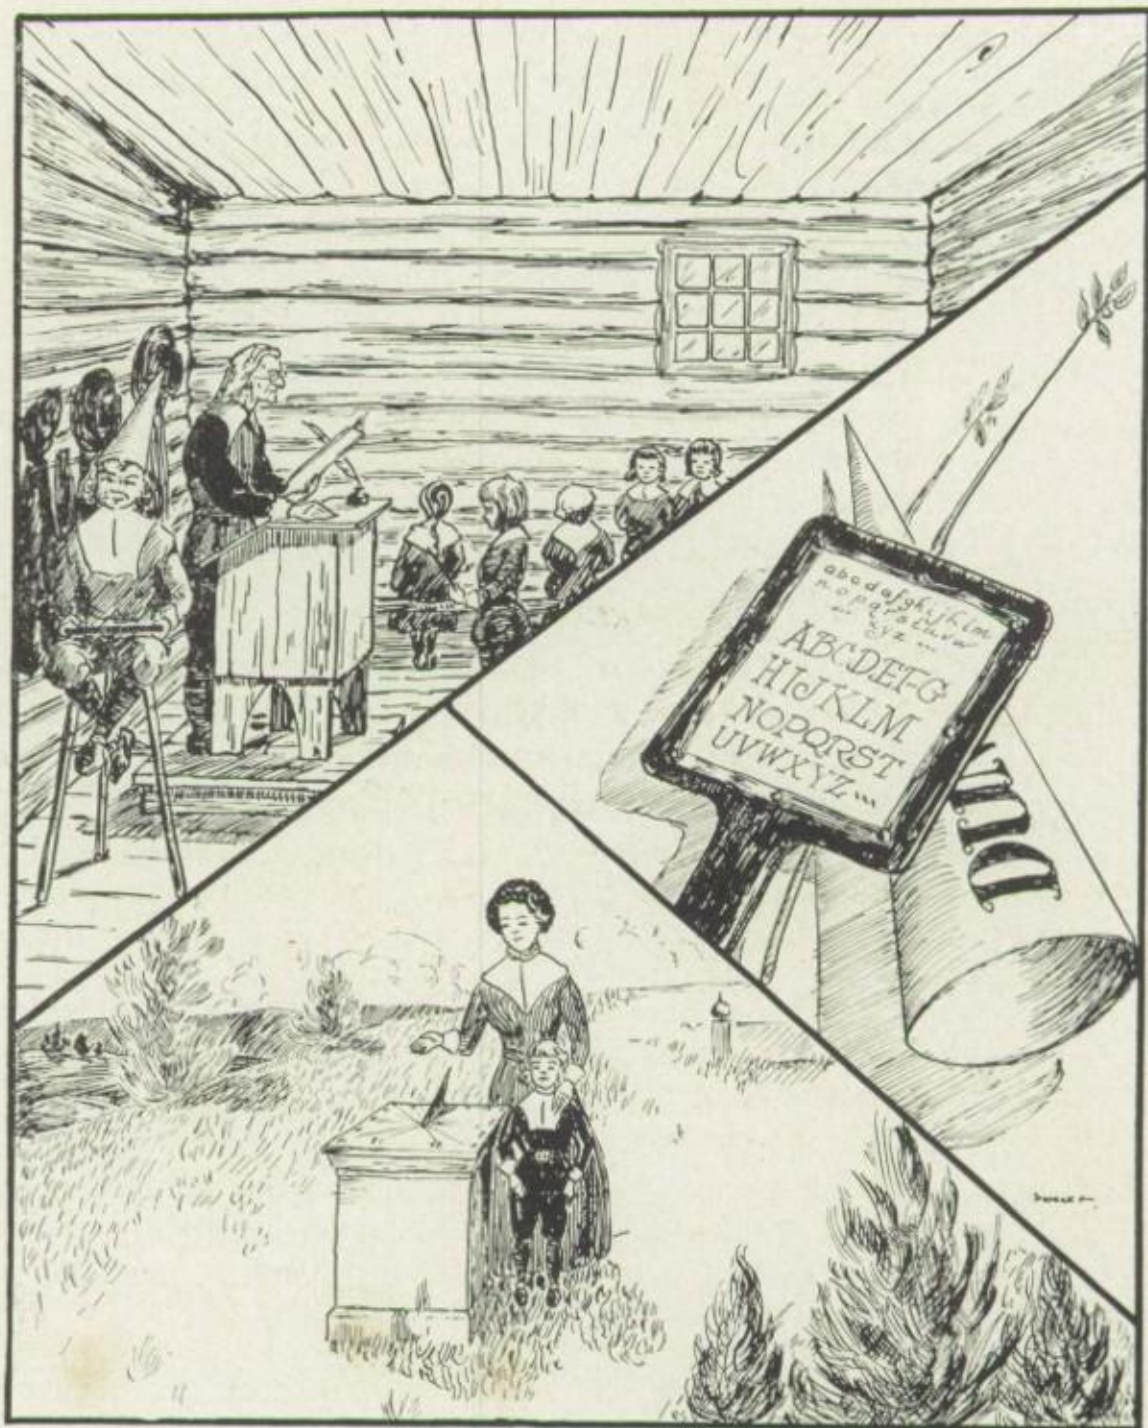

English and Languages

Appreciation of our mother-tongue depends, to a considerable degree upon a knowledge of the languages that have contributed to its perfection. Proficiency in the use of our common speech, and the inculcation of good reading habits is a dominant aim of the English department. The effective study of foreign languages involves more than a knowledge of grammar and vocabulary. This department attempts to inculcate in the minds of pupils the elements of basic culture which will make for better international understanding.

Social Science

Training in citizenship is the accepted goal of education in the United States. This is the particular aim of the Social Studies department. Pupils in the history courses acquire an insight into their past heritage, and study the basic cultures upon which our civilization rests. Only through a knowledge of past human relationships are we able to plot a course for the present and future. Problems of Democracy and Economics acquaint pupils with the large present issues, social, political and economic, facing our nation.

Ye Senior Class Historie

The Ninth Grade Party, Junior High Night, the production of "The Prince of Peddlers," an operetta with a cast composed almost entirely of ninth graders, and the publication of the Pen and Ink and Ink Drops were the main achievements of our last year in Junior High.

In our sophomore year, members of our class participated in various extra-curricular activities, particularly athletics. Our contribution to the social life of the school was the Christmas Dance.

During our junior year, publications and athletics occupied most of our extra class time. The selection of our class rings was an extremely important event because we were the first class to have the new school seal on our rings. With the end of the year came the Junior Promenade. An Oriental theme with gay, colored lanterns and festoons, made this a memorable night for all those who attended it.

This, our last year in high school finds us participating for the last time in extra-class activities. The fruits of our experience are jobs better done. Our social contribution was the Football Dance, with the auditorium resembling the gridiron.

There will always be in our minds a vivid memory of the delightful days spent in Washington, D. C. in the spring. With spring, also, has come preparation for Class Night and Commencement—we have almost reached our goal. We look forward to the day of final parting with both pleasure and regret—pleasure that we shall have completed our high school career and will be ready to enter into our life-work—regret that our pleasant school days together are over—that we shall probably never be together again as a class, and that close associations must be unwillingly severed.

The past four short years have given us much pleasure and many memories which only the Class of 1937 may share. And so, in a few short days the Class of '37 will join the Alumni of Flemington High School.

(1) George Hults and "Red" Holzapfel look 'em over. (2) Here the law makers gather. (3) The Immortal Lincoln. (4) Ethel Cronce and Gertrude Bross pause in the day's occupation. (5) Bradley and "Barney" stick close to the transportation. (6) Mil Bateman, Kate Foley, Judith Rosswaag, and Dot Thompson, laugh at war. (7) The Potter twins, Helen Harwick, and Betty Kerr learn how a polite (Civil) War is fought at first hand. (8) We put on the nose bag. (9) Mary Maczko, Thea Leon, Emily Gellner and Irene Mathews refuse to be photographed. (10) Mr. Van Keuren demonstrates old quarter-back signals with Bradley. (11) We do not believe that this act of John Shikoluk added to the prestige of our school. (12) Grace Zenkus, Dot Kennedy, and Eileen Mackey appear somewhat smaller than they actually are. (13) Turn your head, Ed, and pay attention to Mabel. (14) The chaperons will soon be riding high. (15) The capitol at night reflected in the pool. (16) John Peterson, Jerome Kemmerer, Bud Brock, and Ced Norbury during a dull moment, pose for the photographer.

Ye Moderator Speaks

You have honored me, my fellow members of the Class of 1937, as your president. In accordance with my ability, I have endeavored to serve you, but my best efforts were, I feel, far too inadequate.

It devolves on me, as we face the prospect and reality of closing our years together as a class in Flemington High School, to give you some message of faith and hope to carry with you as we go our several ways.

When we leave the auditorium with our diplomas, it will not be a festive occasion for most of us. It will be the last time, perhaps, that a few of us shall meet. That is a prospect which we dread to think of, but which we must face. We have labored together as a group for several years. Some have accomplished more than others—that was to be expected. All of us could have, no doubt, accomplished much more than we have to our credit.

Our teachers have attempted to set up, to as great a degree as possible in the school, life situations, in order that we might be the better prepared to meet the harsher and greater problems of actually helping to perform the work by which men gain their daily living.

In these days of change—and I do not say this lightly, for we, with our comparatively small experience, have sensed this condition—we need, it seems to me, to formulate a faith or an ideal to which we can cling, and for which, if need be, we can sacrifice our selfish interests, as did the founders of our nation.

Knowledge we have in varying degrees, though all of us have far too little. Facts and skills are of no use unless they are applied, and they are a detriment to social advancement if they are used or applied for wholly selfish ends.

Do not let the end of your school years be the end of learning. We have secured a firm foundation on which to build, if we choose, a life of useful citizenship. Continue to seek the facts of life and of living. Gather them, sift them, and apply them; not only for your own personal benefit, but for the purpose of making the world a better place in which to live.

Adopt a creed of faith and hope—a creed you can live up to—a creed you can be proud to acknowledge, and which will reflect honor to its followers. In bidding you farewell and Godspeed I offer this suggestion: Learn To Love God, Your Neighbor, and Your Country.

CLARENCE MARTYN,

President of the Class of 1937

School Life

(1) Muriel tops Grace in audio education. (2) A couple of fine openings. (3) It looks almost like concentration. (4) There's a shadow in "Swacks" life. (5) Rod believes it, but Dot knows it isn't true. (6) The personality back of the success of the Pet Show. (7) Four of a kind. (8) We wonder if he will be able to throw forward passes. (9) Confined for "gambling." (10) Head bachelor Dave wonders about it. (11) "You may go when you are officially dismissed." (12) Ringoes, Sergeantsville, and Quakertown, are excellent places in which to dine. (13) The Lord of the Admiralty in a lighter mood. (14) It looks like a locker room game. (15) "Dook Jawn" sits it out. (16) Mr. Wells looks the camera in the eye. (17) Audio-visual experts. (18) Rita was all cut up over this picture. (19) Stanton wins over Flemington, 6 to 1. (20) Ah knows yo' ain' guine sock me. (21) Geil and Phil go to sleep on the fence. (22) All wrapped up in each other. (23) Ed has stopped talking. (24) Graded beauty (left to right). (25) Anna and Betty. (26) Champs, Mary and Irene. (27) A case of filial affection. (28) We bring 'em back alive.

Ye Junior Class Historie

In the fall of 1934, two hundred strong, we began our work as pupils in Flemington High School. For those of us who resided outside of the Flemington district, it was a new experience to be grouped with such a large class. Our president, Norman Cary, was the moving spirit in organizing the Hallow'een party. This was a genuine "get together," and was enjoyed by all who attended.

September of 1935 found us, as Sophomores, facing the stricter regulations and routine of the upper school. It was an anxious period, but the transition was less difficult than we had anticipated, and we readily adapted ourselves to our new environment. The sponsorship of the traditional Christmas dance fell to our lot this year. The greater activity program of the senior high school afforded a large number of our class opportunities to express their talents to good advantage.

Both boys' and girls' basketball, as well as football had more than a fair representation from our class in the present year. Publications and other activities provided outlets for the energy and ability of other members. Under the sponsorship of Miss Ann Bahniy, and Mr. Robert Folker, our faculty advisers, a committee selected our class ring at their first meeting. The rings arrived in time for distribution shortly before the Christmas holidays.

As the second semester of our Junior year passed rapidly along we were busy with the operetta, baseball, and intra-mural sports. The crowning social occasion of this year was the Junior Prom held as the last official function of the school year. The importance of the Prom as a social event stimulated us to select a "military" motif both distinctive and attractive, which set the occasion off as one that would linger in the memory of those who attended.

Junior Jingles

A is for Anne, a Bird blithe and gay—
She sits in her classes and talks all day.

B is for Bill, for speed he is noted—
He would be a senior if he wasn't demoted.

C is for Charles, a "Chip" off the block—
He presides at our meetings by watching the clock.

D is for Dalrymple, Dreschler, and Dean—
Three of our classmates whom we think are keen.

E is for Everhardt—Martha to you—
A sport and a pal—and a great talker too.

F is for Ferris, a prim little miss—
Who's love for Dorman, fills her with bliss.

G is for Goodell, she's intelligent and sweet,
But considering food, she certainly can eat.

H is for Higgins; Lester, Betty, and Kate—
Tall, thin, and plump is the order they rate.

I is for Irvin, as precious as gold—
To Naomi he's attentive, so we've been told.

J is for John; in sports he rates high—
In many a game he has broken the tie.

K is for Keiderling; she's brainy quite true,
She types, takes dictation, and talks everyone blue.

L is for Little, whose clothes are superb—
She's neat and polite, and we mean every word.

M is for McDowell who plays the guitar—
With Miceli to help him, they're heard from afar.

N is for Nychypor who does likes to dance—
And his violin playing throws all in a trance.

O is for O'Hare, very seldom in school—
Because "plenty of sleep," is his Golden Rule.

P is for Pinhas whose resistance was bad—
And also for Pappas, a happy young lad.

Q is for Queen, quite regal by name—
And her smiling face, has brought her fame.

R is for Ryman, whose feet measure nine—
And Reed, whose appearance, proves he likes to dine.

S is for Stra, he's handsome, 'tis true—
And many's the heart he has made blue.

T is for Tufo who flirts without care—
But alas, the poor fellow gets only the air.

U is for us in the junior class—
We'll all be seniors next year—if we pass!

V is for Vocke, in art she's supreme—
Get her in class and she sure is a scream.

W is for Williams a bashful young fellow—
And Whipple who shines with her hair a bright yellow.

X is for X-ray and Xylophone too—
We have no x's, but this poem will do.

Z is for Zanetti, last in our line—
He's a lazy young fellow—but yet he is fine.

Ye Sophomore Class Historie

Our class was first formed in the Fall of 1936 when one hundred sixty freshmen entered the portals of F. H. S. Many of our members came from country schools, and after a short period of adjustment to new surroundings and new regulations, we proceeded to the election of class officers. Under the leadership of Walter Leffar, our class president, we participated widely in the activities of the junior high school. Our class played a large part in making the junior high operetta, the "Mikado," a success. The annual Hallowe'en Dance was our chief contribution to the social life of the junior high school.

In the Fall we were sophomores, one hundred fifty strong. We readily adjusted ourselves to the routine of senior high school, and looked forward to a very successful year. We were well represented by several of our class members on the athletic teams, in the operetta, "H.M.S. Pinafore," and in the glee club. The outstanding social event was the Christmas Dance, which, under the leadership of our able president, Jean McCutcheon, was one of the finest and most original Christmas dances that had been held in the Flemington High School auditorium in many years.

That same Fall we voted to purchase, at the appropriate time, our class rings with the school seal, from the same concern which has furnished them for the past two years.

Spring is rapidly drawing to a close, and with it, the end of our time as the Sophomore class. As we look back over our record of accomplishments and participation in the varied activities of the school, we feel very well satisfied with our record.

We have made only a beginning, and are looking forward to our Junior year which, we hope, will see the great majority of our members participating widely in the varied program of curricular and extra-curricular activities provided in the Flemington High School.

ORGANIZATIONS

"Student Voice"

The English classes provided a natural setting for the production of this bi-monthly magazine. All material was produced in these classes by pupils as part of their regular class work. The staff, under the supervision of Mrs. Dorothy D. Landis, edited and selected those stories, poems, editorials and features which made up the Student Voice.

The editorial staff was composed of one member from each English class in the senior high school, augmented by pupils at large who tried out for positions.

The magazine was again awarded "All-American" rating by the National Scholastic Press Association. Grace Zenkus was editor-in-chief and the business manager was Roger Williams.

As in former years the Hunterdon County Democrat maintained the School News Section in each issue during the school year. Dorothy Kennedy and Grace Zenkus, co-editors, made assignments to members covering all school activities. In collaboration with Miss Patricia Murray, faculty adviser, all assignments were corrected and turned over to the Democrat for publication. Each Friday, Alan Painter, assistant editor of the Hunterdon County Democrat, provided one-half hour of instruction in journalism to the members of the class. To insure correct journalistic style on the part of class members, Mr. Painter carefully checked all articles submitted for publication.

Glee Club

Increased evidence of the high quality of work performed by this organization was apparent, when eight of its members, in addition to Miss Gordon, supervisor of Music in the Flemington Schools, were selected for the All-State High School Chorus in November.

At the Christmas season the club presented the cantata "Childe Jesus" written by J. W. Clokey, and in the spring a special concert for the public was given by the group.

Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta, "H. M. S. Pinafore" was also presented by the members in March. The entire cast of the play was chosen this year from the Glee Club.

The "Echo"

The Echo received for the fifth consecutive year, the First Class award from the National Scholastic Press Association. The large number of extra class activities participated in by students has stimulated and maintained the demand for a permanent word and picture record of those organizations, associations, and productions which have contributed to the formation of good citizenship habits, associational living, and lasting friendships. Toward this end, the Echo staff has faithfully worked.

Subscriptions, advertisements, and miscellaneous activities were again the basis of publication finances.

Fifty members composed this well rounded organization. Each section had the requisite number of trained players to make it effective for both concert and parade work. Prospective players were in training throughout the school year, and took regular places in the group when, in the estimation of the instructor, Mr. Hamilton, they had made sufficient progress.

Two assembly programs given by the ensemble were enthusiastically greeted by the student body, and the football games were greatly enlivened by the band's participation during the games, and between the halves. William McDowell, the student leader, deserved much credit for his efforts.

Service League

To replace the traffic squad, the Service League was formed in December 1936 under the direction of George C. Lyon.

Members of this organization act as monitors in the school, and patrol the building during social functions and athletic events.

Membership in the organization is obtained by recommendation from a member or a teacher. At the beginning of the school term, junior high teachers recommend to the organization, reliable students from the ninth grade who have served as satisfactory monitors for a probationary period.

Officers of this organization were: Roger Williams, President; John Stra, Vice-president; Elizabeth Kerr, Secretary; Arthur Barbiche, Treasurer.

Advisory Council

The organization of any student group should come as a felt need for pupil participation.

The Advisory Council met at the call of Supervising Principal, Edwin Van Keuren, to consult with him about such problems or school procedures in which he felt the student body should have a part. The failure of the Student Council to function this year, had left a gap in the student government program which this organization filled temporarily.

Membership was composed of the heads of student organizations. The group discussed relevant problems affecting the student body, and interpreted problems and decisions to the students.

Orchestra

The efforts of this organization, and of Miss Gordon, supervisor of music in the Flemington Public Schools, were rewarded again this year by the continued and greatly increased interest in music shown throughout the school, and by the hearty approval of the community.

One full hour rehearsal for the entire ensemble was provided each week. The twenty seven members composing the orchestra furnished the music for the commencement program.

A genuine demonstration of the competency and ability of leading players was given by the special ensemble of seven members who furnished the musical numbers for the operetta "H. M. S. Pinafore."

ORCHESTRA

1st row—(l. to r.)—N. Balabas, W. Nychypor, R. Britton, K. Stothoff, D. Curtis, J. Zuhajewicz, D. Butterfoss, J. Alleger, J. Bodine, F. Stothoff, M. Levine. 2nd row: J. Thatcher, S. Bass, M. Summer Time

Top Row—(left to right)—If only the dust could remain on these books. Nobody to ask us for money.
 Second Row: It was here the youthful wood-carvers plied their trade. Nobody kicking the seats around.
 Reading Academy name plate.
 Third Row: Mechanics and bugs will be explained here in September. Sanitation personified.
 Bottom Row: Many a blowout was held here. Noiseless typewriters.

ACTIVITIES

Masque and Sandal

Any pupil who has had a leading role in an operetta or Senior High School play is eligible for membership in this organization. Property, and stage managers, or their assistants who have shown aptitude and ability, may apply for membership.

A successful tryout before a senior high assembly is another avenue through which others may become members. The aim of the organization, to promote serious dramatic appreciation in the high school, is partially attained through the staging, by the members, of at least two one-act plays during the school year.

Mrs. Landis organized and sponsored this organization.

1st row—(l. to r.)— Mrs. Dorothy Landis, Adviser; L. Potter, H. Harwick, E. Mackey, E. Gellner, C. Hanania. 2nd row: M. Mathews, A. Bird, L. Chamberlin, G. Fink, E. Ewing, D. Potter, E. Kerr. 3rd row: N. Cary, R. Williams, C. Martyn, G. Zenkus, M. Bateman, M. Keating. 4th row: W. Barrick, A. McDowell, J. Peterson, E. Samson, C. Tufo. 5th row: F. Stotthoff, M. Pinhas, W. Nychypor, W. McDowell, D. Dilts, L. Milan.

KEY KLICKERS

Key Klickers

The Key Klickers were organized in 1932 by Mrs. Blanche Park LeMonn who has been its sole faculty adviser. Membership in the club was open to students of the Typing II classes, and to those pupils who had formerly completed the course. Since its inception, this organization has had the responsibility for the mechanics connected with the publication of Student Voice, Pen and Ink, pupils handbook, and other miscellaneous material such as play programs, announcements, and mimeographing, connected with subject examinations. Officers were: President, Helen Harwick; Secretary-Treasurer, Dorothy Potter; Business Manager, Roger Williams; Advertising Manager, Elizabeth Kerr.

Band of Owls Klub

This club met every second Tuesday to receive instruction in library techniques from Mr. Edward Schofield, school librarian. Practice was provided in such library skills as proper shelving, book repairs, cataloging, and numbering, desk practice, checking library attendance, clerical work, caring for special collections such as magazines, files and catalogues; preparation and care of bulletin boards and special exhibits; and in making the library more attractive and serviceable generally. Library services have been greatly enlarged and modernized under Mr. Schofield's directions.

Officers of the club were: President, Violet Cwik; Vice President, John Totten; Secretary, Elizabeth Hagen; Treasurer, Gladys Ashbury.

B. O. O. K.

Future Farmers of America

The Flemington chapter of the Future Farmers of America devoted its activities to the judging of agricultural products and livestock. A team representative of the group participated in the State Judging Contest, at the State Agriculture College.

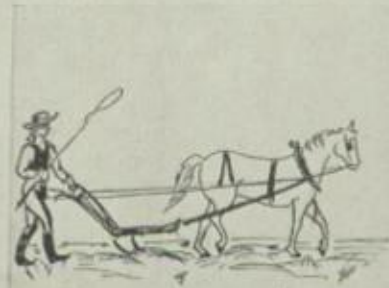

The purpose of the organization was to create a love of nature and of country life, to promote thrift, to develop leadership, scholarship, and to establish self confidence in the farm boys.

Motto: Learning to do—Doing to learn—Earning to live—Living to serve.

President, William Dilts; Vice President, Douglas Volk; Secretary, Victor Droppa; Treasurer, Adolph Krebs; Sergeant-at-Arms, Edgar Grey; Reporter, Raymond Buch; Faculty Adviser, Mr. Fred G. Lodge.

F. F. A.

1st row—(l. to r.)—J. Fairbanks, H. Mathews, L. Smith, A. Krebs, C. Enea, J. Dilts, G. Hillebrand. 2nd row: A. Leaver, L. Makarick, E. Grey, F. Shurts, M. Force, R. Fairbanks. 3rd row: D. Niece, H. Case, W. Belonsoff, F. Catanio, G. Ringer, P. Michish, W. Dilts. 4th row: A. Barbiche, M. Cooper, L. Johnson, R. Buch, R. Holzapfel. 5th row: W. VanMarter, V. Droppa, R. Allen, Mr. Fred Lodge, Faculty Adviser.

Typesetters

1st row—(l. to r.)—J. Shkoluk, S. Lentine, C. Stawski. 2nd row: J. MacIlroy, C. Zolkauskas, R. Buch, G. Plum. 3rd row: Miss Helen Yeagle, Adviser; R. Allen.

The work of this club included various combinations of fundamental principles of typography and printing. Much of it required the application of artistic judgment in its planning and composition. Members gained practical experience thru the production of actual work which created an interest and incentive of a high order. From an ordinary class in printing techniques, the club became a service organization to the Flemington Public Schools. Blank forms and other material required for the proper conduct and records of extra-class activities were set up and printed by the members. The club treasurer was John MacIlroy.

C M K-18

Membership in this group was confined to pupils in the senior high school who were in the Advanced Cooking Class. The group had for its avowed purpose, the development of increased interest and ability of its membership, and appreciation of the importance of home economics in modern society.

C M K-18 met each Friday during the second period, under the supervision and sponsorship of Mrs. Muller, instructor in Home Economics. Meetings were largely devoted to discussions concerned with such subjects as consumer education, child care, and family relations. The group presented a one-act play in the high school auditorium.

18—C. M. K.

1st row—(l. to r.)—J. Rosswaag, L. Sherry, F. Kuntz, E. Potts, 2nd row: E. Bohren, J. Alleger, M. Queen, M. Paustian, H. Griska. 3rd row: G. Wilson, R. Berkowitz, M. Dilts, K. Schenck.

Girls' Leaders Corps

LEADERS CORPS

1st row—(l. to r.)—M. Welsh, G. Fink, D. Potter, C. Leon, L. Karrow, K. Schlapfer, L. Sherry. 2nd row: J. Goodell, E. Peters, E. Ewing, A. Keiderling, V. Stuart, J. Brewer. 3rd row: E. Higgins, D. Kennedy, D. Scott, G. Nadeau, G. Zenkus, Miss Rosabel Steinhauer, Faculty Adviser; K. Higgins, J. McCutcheon. 4th row: E. Schrimpe, H. Young, D. Baker, C. Abel, J. Britton, M. Keating, E. Vocke. 5th row: E. Little, N. Hauck, M. Ferris, M. Dreschler. 6th row: S. Whipple, M. Mathews, E. Danforth, R. Hoffman, G. Fenwick, J. Case, B. Stangl.

This group was organized and sponsored by Miss Rosabel Steinhauer, in September, 1935. Captains of girls' sports, team managers, gymnasium class captains and squad leaders composed its membership. Bi-monthly meetings were devoted to a discussion of girls' sports and other forms of recreation in which girls were, or might have been interested. In addition the corps acted as a training coterie to explain the physical education program to the other girls, and to assist them in becoming proficient in sports.

Officers were: President, Dorothy Kennedy; Vice President, Catherine Leon; Recording Secretary, Eileen Mackey; Corresponding Secretary, Grace Zenkus; Treasurer, Naomi Komisar.

Operetta

Members of the cast for "H. M. S. Pinafore," the senior high school operetta were chosen from the Glee Club. The wisdom of this decision was evident both from the standpoint of improved singing and discipline of the members during rehearsals.

The plot centered around the beautiful daughter of Captain Corcoran, commander of the British Navy, who was in love with a common sailor, but whose father wished her to marry a naval officer. Leads in the operetta were taken by John Sladden, Bud Martyn, Wilmer Barrick, Betty Kerr, Emily Gellner, Norman Cary, Mary Mathews, and Edward Samson. Mrs. Zuegner and Miss Gordon coached the play, assisted by Mr. Hefferon in sailor dance numbers.

OPERETTA

Zenkus, R. Hoffman, M. Robinson, A. Johnson, J. Rosswaag, H. Harwick, A. Pohl, E. Mackey. 2nd row: N. Balabas, E. Naldi, F. Polacsek, R. Charles, A. Barbiche, M. Pinhas, D. Dilts, G. Alleger, F. Stothoff, H. Clarey, D. Butterfoss, H. Cregar, H. Fink.

Pet Club

The work of this group reached its climax in the annual Pet Show held in the high school gymnasium in the spring. The first show, held in the spring of 1931, had somewhat less than one hundred entries. Increased interest was evidenced by the fact that almost three hundred pets were catalogued in the last show.

General interest on the part of pupils of the community, in a friendly little Boston terrier—"Merrie Patter"—adopted by the club as mascot, was responsible for the origin of the club. Mrs. Stryker has been sponsor of this organization since its inception.

This organization has published Pen and Ink, Flemington Junior High School magazine since it was started in November, 1930. This organization also published a graduation number of the magazine under the title of Ink Drops.

The Pen and Ink started originally as a six-page newspaper and has now grown to a twenty-page monthly magazine which aims to depict and interpret to the pupils and community, the life and interests of the Junior High School. President, Muriel Horvath; Secretary, Muriel Vreeland; Treasurer, Mary Mina; Faculty Adviser, Miss Mills. Treasurer, Pen and Ink, Eleanor Waldron; Editor-in Chief, Harvey Riekoff.

Old Reading

"Old Reading" is the affectionate term by which the older graduates refer to their local alma mater. This building, the gift of Daniel Reading to the borough in 1862 was razed in 1915 to make room for the Flemington High School. The original stone name plate of the academy decorates the entrance to the present building.

FLEMINGTON SCHOOL SONG

ARRANGED BY E.A.C. AND R.L.K.

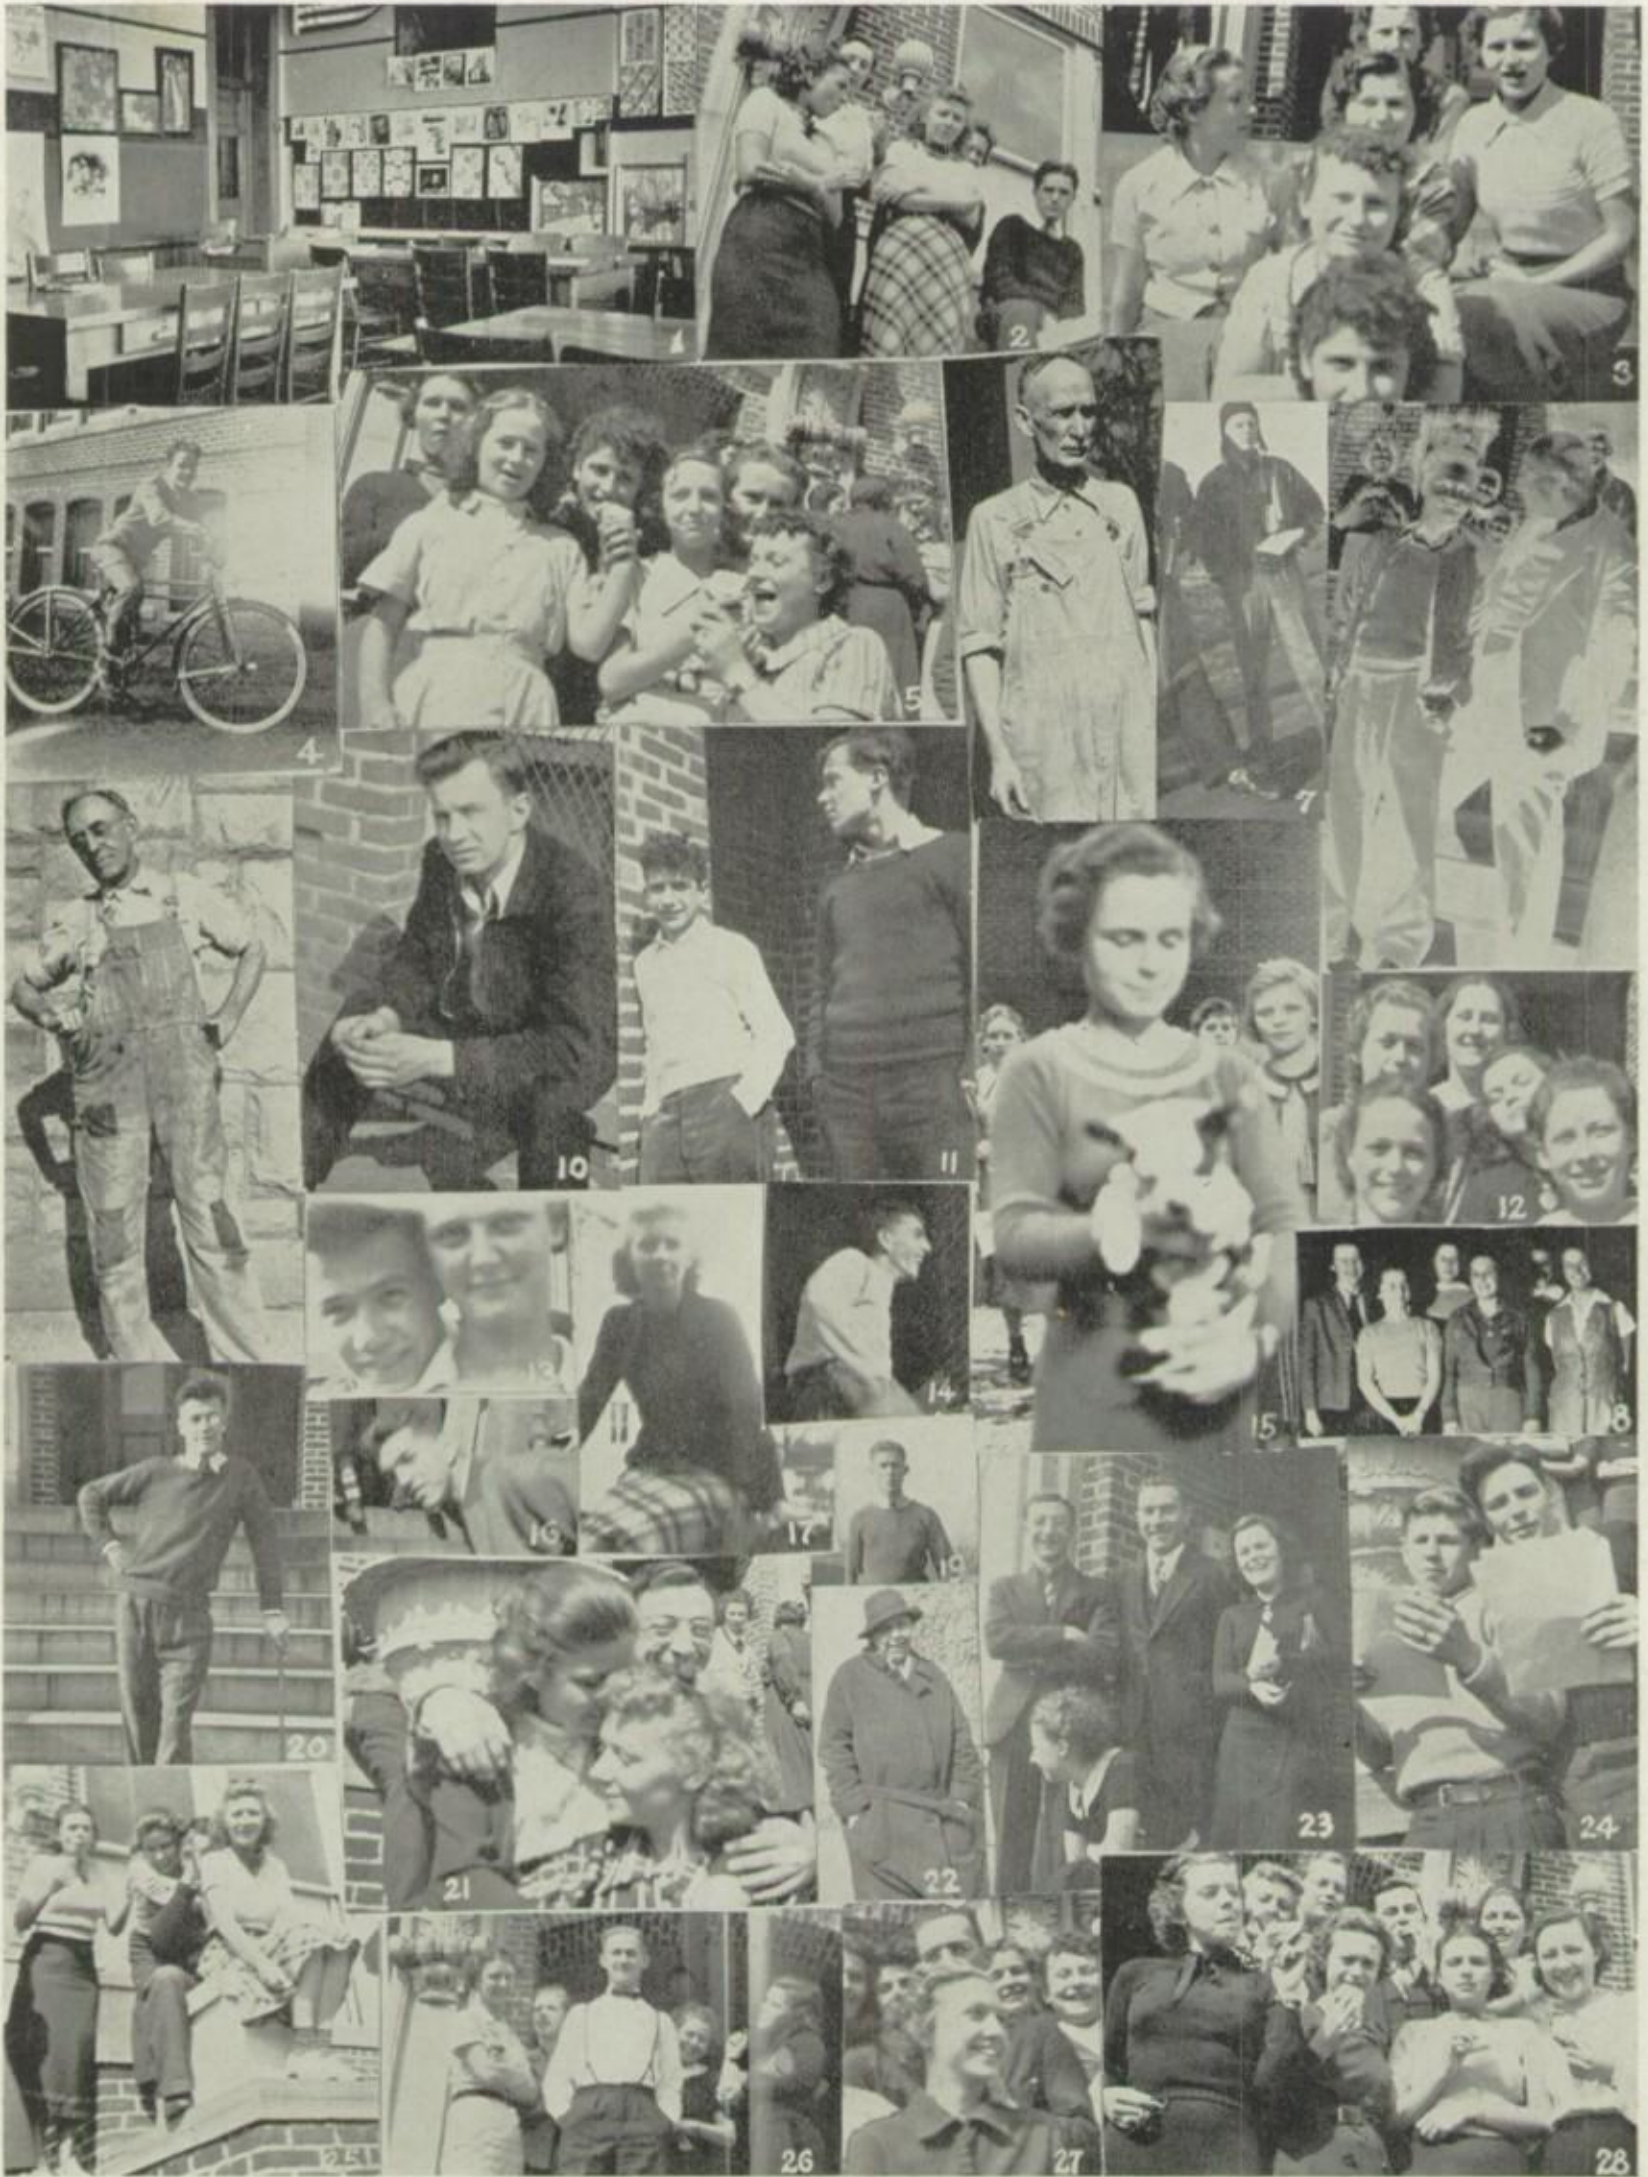

ECHO

A-mer-i-ca, land of the free, Home of the true and brave, With flag of red, and white, and blue, Which does most proudly wave; Her schools are large, her courses long, The stu-dents brave and wise; And best of all is Flemington High, The fi-nest 'neath the skies.

CHORUS
 Now all to-geth-er, boys, let's give a heav-y cheer.
 Three for our school days, And three for Read-ing dear.
 Raz-zle! Daz-zle! Sis! Boom! Ah! Ah! Ah!
 Flem-ing-ton and her high school. Rah! Rah! Rah!

School Life

(1) Here we learn to appreciate beauty. (2) Virginia tells Emma about it while Bud listens in. (3) This bunch with the exception of Margaret Jack and Gladys Fenwick seem to be in every picture. (4) This bicycle appears also on page 83. (5) Rita, Betty, and Eleanor are the only new ones in this group. (6) They cut Mr. Wells legs off in this one. (7) A future deputy sheriff. (8) Sam and Mr. Miller go into reverse (see page 36). (9) The philosopher of the grammar school. (10) Handsome, isn't he? (11) Ralph Alonis looks 'em over, while Craig takes in the camera. (12) The two Dots, Mackey, Kate and Phyllis seem to enjoy the situation. (13) Adele and John have the same outlook. (14) Don gets the point. (15) Tuggie exhibits her pet. (16) Storm bows to his public. (17) Emma in all her beauty. (18) The riding club needs horses—they've lost their legs. (19) Sheik Gerald all by himself. (20) Once more the commander of the Navy poses for us. (21) Ben seems well satisfied with his lapful of Emma and Gen. (22) Miss Knotts takes the air. (23) Mr. Frank has a beauty to left of him and to the front of him. Ben is the coach's right hand man. (24) Harry Fink and Norman Cary read the glad tidings. (25) Ginny, Genny, and Emmy bask in the public gaze. (26) The sheik with his harem—where is Norma? (27) "Cutter" eclipses Mr. Coffman. (28) Mr. Folker in his element.

ATHLETICS

Athletic Council

In order that the officers of this organization may become acquainted with policies and procedures, provision was made for their election in May of the preceding school year.

The pressing problem of financing inter-scholastic and intra-mural athletics remained unsolved. Because of the revival of the Activities Ticket, a definite though inadequate fund was available to meet immediate expenses; but if this body is to accomplish its purpose in this regard, provision for adequate sources of income must be provided.

A new control over the work of this organization was instituted when Mr. Harold S. Goldsmith was appointed faculty manager of athletics.

COACHES

(left to right) Mr. Leonard Frank, Miss Rosabel Steinhauer, Mr. Fred Hefferon.

Review of Athletics

Inter-scholastic and intra-mural sports constituted the major portion of the extra-curricular program of Flemington High School. Football, basketball, hockey, baseball, and track offered a well balanced selection from which interested students might choose.

Again our football team enjoyed only a mediocre season, being out-classed in most of the games played. Coach Frank devoted much time to basic fundamentals looking toward the next season. A "pep" meeting before the Lambertville game inspired the traditional spirit that brought victory to Flemington. Mayor John F. Schenk presented a trophy to the winning team. This award will become the permanent property of the team which first wins it five times. Practically the whole first team will be lost by graduation, and Coach Frank will be faced with the problem of building from the ground up.

Basketball was a repetition of last season. Again the boys' team came to the front by tying Hampton. The play-off resulted in a one point victory for Flemington, and won for them their second consecutive Hunterdon County League Championship which Coach Hefferon's teams have captured twice since their first championship in 1931. As with football, Mr. Hefferon is faced with the problem of building an almost completely new team, due to the fact that graduation will take four of the first men.

The Girls' Basketball Team, in spite of the loss of six regulars by graduation last June, came through the season with a score of eleven victories out of thirteen games played. Coach Steinhauer's players again had their greatest opposition from Frenchtown. The official season ended in a tie with this team, and the resulting play-off on the neutral Pennington floor brought, as in the case of the boys, a one point victory, and the Hunterdon County League Championship to Flemington.

True to predictions, girls' hockey, this year, came to occupy an important place in the athletic program of the high school. This sport organized in the fall of 1935, by Miss Steinhauer, director of Girls' Physical Education, became immediately popular, and this year a large squad of trained players participated in a series of seven games both in and outside of Hunterdon County. The fact that the team won five of these games played against experienced opponents, is indicative of the progress the sport has made in the period of two seasons.

Baseball and track did not receive the attention given to other sports. The ball team enjoyed only a mediocre season. The one official track meet held at Lambertville was won by that team. This spring, under the direction of Coach Frank, the baseball team has gotten off to an early and enthusiastic start which promises good results.

HAIL AND FAREWELL

One of the great problems facing the people of the United States is that of maintaining our democratic form of government. Since the days of Washington, public policy has called for an educated, enlightened electorate in order that the demagogue and partisan leader should not lead the people from the path of democracy. With the exception of the fundamental issue of slavery, this policy has enabled us to accept peacefully the will of the majority to bring about far-reaching economic, social and political changes.

Cherish and guard this heritage of free education. Learn the facts, filter the facts, apply the facts, and make decisions in accordance with this procedure. Learn to love God, your neighbor, and your country. Set this as your goal, and American democracy is safe.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

ADVERTISEMENTS

To Our Patrons

The students of Flemington High School are very thankful indeed for the financial assistance you have given them in the production of the 1937 Echo. Without your advertisements and compliments this record of school life would necessarily have to be curtailed and abridged—thus defeating the purpose of the publication.

We feel that it is just and proper that the people of the Community served by Flemington High School, help to continue this worthwhile student venture by giving their patronage to those merchants and others who have, in so large a measure, insured it success.
